Olympic Tennis at Wimbledon in 2012

There are now less than two years to go to the start of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The Olympic Park continues to take shape in east London, and we are working on detailed plans for other venues across the UK that will be hosting the Games. These include Wimbledon, which is the proposed venue for the Olympic Tennis events. Wimbledon is an exciting and important location for the London 2012 Olympic Games. It is a world-class venue and would provide a spectacular setting for the Tennis events in 2012.

In order to stage the Games at Wimbledon, we need to apply for planning permission to install the temporary facilities required for the events. Before we submit our planning application to the London Borough of Merton, we would like to hear your views.

To find out more, please visit our exhibition at Wimbledon from 19–21 August 2010.

Wimbledon during The Championships

Wimbledon during the Games in 2012

Wimbledon would provide a spectacular setting for the Olympic Tennis events during the Games in 2012.

The Tennis events are expected to run from 28 July to 5 August 2012, with up to 26,000 spectators attending each day.

There will be nine days of competition, including men's and women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles. There are five gold medals to be won.

Planning consent is required to install the temporary facilities needed to stage the Games at Wimbledon. After the Games, all temporary facilities will be removed.
